CHILDREN AND ADOLESCENTS CAN HAVE SERIOUS MENTAL HEALTH PROBLEMS

The Division of Child and Family Services (DCFS) Children's Mental Health Services are community based mental health services provided to children through the age of 17 years and their families. Services are family driven and child centered based on System of Care values and principles.

Like some adults, children and adolescents can have mental health problems that can interfere with the way they think, feel and behave. When left untreated, these problems can lead to school failure, family conflict, drug abuse, violence and sometimes even suicide.

Mental health problems in children and adolescents may be caused by a variety of reasons including a family history of mental health problems, brain injuries, exposure to toxins, exposure to traumatic events in the home or community, child abuse, stress related to chronic poverty, or the loss of important people in the child's life due to death, divorce, or broken relationships.

"No one has yet fully realized the wealth of sympathy, kindness and generosity hidden in the soul of a child. The effort of every true education should be to unlock that treasure."

- Emma Goldman, author

WHEN TO GET HELP FOR YOUR CHILD

There is hope for children and families who are experiencing childhood mental health problems. Families are encouraged to seek help as soon as possible if they see any of these warning signs which may include but are not limited to:

- Refusing to attend school or a declining school performance
- If your child is being bullied or is being accused of bullying by other children
- Extreme fearfulness or excessive worrying
- Recurrent negative feelings about oneself
- Uncontrollable anger or rage
- Repetitive habits and rituals
- Excessive sexual thoughts or actions
- Using drugs or alcohol
- Obsessive dieting, exercising or any other behaviors

FINDING THE RIGHT SERVICE

- Get accurate information from hotlines, internet websites or call DCFS for assistance (contact information on back panel)
- Seek referrals from professionals including your child's pediatrician or school guidance counselor
- Always ask questions about treatment and services
- Talk to the families in your community
- Contact Nevada's parent support organization, Nevada Parents Encouraging Parents (NEPP) at 1-800-216-5188 or <http://www.nvpep.org>
