Meet Grayson!

Grayson is a jokester, who enjoys spending his time cracking jokes and smiling. He finds socializing with adults is more comfortable than socializing with his peers. He loves to ask questions and is very inquisitive about the things he enjoys. Grayson would love to get his pilot's license one day and has interest in learning more about aviation. He loves to draw, journal, and read. Grayson also loves to play games including Dungeons and Dragons, card games, and video games. He is interested in learning the guitar! Grayson currently wants to pursue welding as a career and would like to utilize the Job Corps to achieve his goals. He's been interested in getting into wrestling at his high school too. He likes History, Science and Biology classes in high school. It is important for Grayson that he is able to maintain contact with some of his biological family. He needs encouragement and patience to navigate social situations in his environment, and would benefit from parents who are higher energy and can give him direction.
