

James- January 2001

Don't expect to find James keeping to himself. He is charismatic, outspoken, and social. He can be very funny and he likes making others laugh. In his free time he enjoys football, basketball, wrestling, and going to the movies. James has an Individualized Education Plan at school. James is a bright young man and with the right guidance and support he could go to college after he graduates high school.

James would do best where he is the youngest or only child in the home. He thrives in a calm and consistent environment, where there are set rules that are regularly enforced. James is a teenager in need of life long permanent connections!

For more information about James or the adoption process, please email josterhout@dcfs.nv.gov