WCHSA had received two prior reports that were coded as Information Only and Information/Referral.

The first was received on 2/2/2015 (Information Only): Allegations of neglect and inadequate supervision of a 5 year old child by the mother. The report expressed concern of inappropriate persons caring for the child while the mother is working, the child being dirty and unkempt, and concerns that the mother was using Percocet's and has been inconsistent with picking up and dropping off child. The mother was alleged to have underlying mental health issues.

The second was received on 3/23/2015 (Information/Referral): Allegations that the mother was suspected to be under the influence of either drugs or alcohol which allegedly affected her ability to parent. It was reported that she was making harassing phone calls and previously committed a battery. It was further reported that the 5 year old child in the mother's care was dirty and was not wearing their seatbelt.

Administration on Families and Children, Child Welfare Policy Manual, CAPTA, Section 2 excerpt, March 16, 2006:

2.1A.4 CAPTA, Assurances and Requirements, Access to Child Abuse and Neglect Information, Public disclosure

1. Question: The CAPTA amendments at section 106 (b)(2)(vi) require States to provide for the public disclosure of findings or information about a case of child abuse or neglect which results in a child fatality or near fatality. For the purposes of this requirement, what is considered a "near fatality"?

Answer: A "near fatality" is defined under section 106 (b)(4)(A) as "...an act that, as certified by a physician, places the child in serious or critical condition." For example, if hospital records reflect that the child's condition is "serious" or "critical", this would be considered a "near fatality" under CAPTA.

2. Question: The requirement for public disclosure states that "findings or information" about a case must be disclosed. Does this mean that States have the option to disclose either the findings of the case, or information which may be general in nature and address such things as practice issues rather than provide case-specific information?

Answer: No. The intent of this provision was to assure that the public is informed about cases of child abuse or neglect which result in the death or near death of a child. As with the use of the other "or's" in this provision ("child abuse or neglect" and "child fatality or near fatality"), we understand the language to be inclusive and not limiting.

Specifically, the reference to "findings or information" requires the disclosure of information about such a case even if there are no findings. Thus, when child abuse or neglect results in the death or near death of a child, the State must provide for the disclosure of the available facts. However, nothing in this provision should be interpreted to require disclosure of information which would jeopardize a criminal investigation or proceeding.
