1. PROJECT OVERVIEW

1.1 Treatment foster care is a “specialized” or “advanced” version of foster care in which foster parents are provided with additional training and support in order to provide specialized foster care and support to high-needs youth. Like other programs within a system of care approach, a fundamental assumption of treatment foster care is that the most effective treatment environment for a youth is his/her home, community, and school. Within this model, foster parents pay close attention to the youth’s behavior on a daily abasis and are in close communication with other members of the youth’s treatment team in order to provide individualized, coordinated treatment (Fisher & Chamberlin, 2000). Foster parents receive on going consultation and support so they are able to provide the best possible environment for the youth. Due to their complex mental and behavioral health needs, children who are recommended for treatment foster care or specialized foster care have often experienced placement instability (e.g. an average of 4.75 previous placements before entering treatment foster care: Chamberlin, 2003). One important goal of specialized foster care is to improve placement stability for youth by providing extra training and support to foster parents, as well as in-home support and intervention to proactively address problems that might otherwise result in placement disruption. A systematic review of outcome studies in treatment foster care demonstrated that the intervention produced large positive effects on social skills and placement permanency (Reddy & Pfeiffer, 1997). More moderate positive effects were also found on behavior problems, level of restrictiveness of discharge placement, and psychological adjustment (e.g., emotional well-being, self-esteem, quality of sleep).

1.2 A model for specialized foster care was implemented through the state of Nevada on a pilot basis in 2013-2015 throughout Clark County, Washoe, County and the state’s rural regions. Following the successful completion of the pilot, creation of a new model of the Specialized Foster Care Program (SFCP) was approved through the 2015 Legislature, not only to improve the outcomes for foster youth with special needs, but to also improve the effectiveness of monies spent for foster children suffering severe emotional disturbance (SED) within Nevada’s Child Welfare System. During the 2015 Legislative Session, legislation was passed authorizing the State Division of Child and Family Services (DCFS) to serve as the oversight body for specialized foster care. NRS 424.041-424.043 requires DCFS to conduct an annual review of placement of child ren in specialized foster homes. NRS 424.041-424.043 also provides DCFS with the authority to require corrective action should a jurisdiction no meet their responsibilities in implementing specialized foster care. Youth with complex needs and multiple system involvement throughout Nevada are admitted to SFCP based on a standardized assessment process. Youth must also be considered Severely Emotionally Disturbed as defined by Nevada Medicaid Services. Specialized foster care is intended to serve a target population of youth who:

1.2.1 Have identified behavioral or mental health needs that cannot be met in traditional family foster care;

- 1.2.2 Those who are struggling to maintain placement in traditional family foster care due to behavioral and emotional needs;
 - 1.2.3 Those who have disrupted from a placement due to behavioral and mental health needs; and/or
 - 1.2.4 Those returning or stepping down from a higher level of care.
- 1.3 The Nevada DCFS is soliciting an evidence-based training/consultant approach to improving practice in our treatment foster care homes. The evidence-based approach will fill identified gaps in “usual” foster care practice. The resulting model will include training/consultation for community-based foster care home staff/supervisors as well as training for treatment foster care parents. The model will include a train-the-trainer approach, so that administrative/supervisory personnel can learn the mode and train treatment foster parents within their own communities. The evidence-based practice selected will also provide training on practical parenting and supervisory skills and techniques as well.

2. GOALS AND OBJECTIVES

The evidence-based practice selected will:
